DENTAL 3D PRINTER

Our 3D printer (CEREC machine) helps to reduce treatment time and increase patient comfortability associated with the production of crowns and veneers. A typical “same-day crown” will take about 2 hours from start to finish.

Here’s how our CEREC machine will benefit you:

- 1) Eliminates the need for the use of a dental lab to fabricate the crown, meaning no gooey, messy impression at the end of your visit!
- 2) If the treatment requires the use of novocaine, only one anesthetic injection is needed because you will start and finish the crown procedure the same day!
- 3) Since you leave the office with your permanent crown, there is no need for the placement of a temporary crown! Issues like cement failure occur when temporary crowns are placed due to the nature of the provisional adhesive.

Step-by-step CEREC process:

- 1) SCAN - our CEREC camera will scan for precise 3D images in the natural color of the area to be restored. (see image A)
- 2) DESIGN - After analyzing the original scan and our Doctor’s preparation of the tooth to be restored, the CEREC software generates restoration proposals.

3) MILLING - The CEREC grinding and milling unit takes the information from the software and creates a crown using burs to contour a pliable purple block. (see image B)

4) SINTER & GLAZE - After our Doctors check the fit of the milled tooth, the CEREC oven hardens and colors the crown.

5) CROWN INSERTION!

NOTE FROM THE DOCTORS

As 2019 comes to a close, we embrace the start of an amazing decade together! This past holiday season brought about many cheerful memories I continue to treasure.

As Doctor Gabrielle and I reflect on this past year, we wanted to extend a BIG Thank You for being a part of our community! We are both truly grateful for you and for entrusting your dental care to us.

Whatever you hope to achieve, experience or manifest this year, all of us at Leading Smiles are here to support you and your intentions. We wish you many blessings for a healthy New Year filled with everything that lifts your spirit and gives you the greatest joy.
